time of the surrender. He was regarded as one of the best soldiers of his command.

Having graduated in medicine in 1867, he located in Virginia and soon after he married Miss Virginia Lee Millan, of Fairfax County, Va. In 1870 he settled in Pittsylvania County, Va., where for eleven years he practiced medicine, and where he also gave the land and built on it a Presbyterian church. Seven children were born to him and his devoted wife, who with three children, Professor Ashton W. McWhorter, now the acting president of Hampden-Sidney College; Miss Jennie M. McWhorter and Mrs. Hugh J. MacIntyre, of Thomasville, Ga., still survives him.

Some men achieve greatness by their talent for money making, others become famous by reason of scholarship or skill in waging war. The greatest man is he who rears a goodly family. Dr. McWhorter was great, when measured by this test. The writer was his pastor for seven years and knew his children from youth up, and he now gladly bears witness to their Christian training, their superior intellectual gifts, and their consistent Christian life.

For sake of its educational advantages Dr. McWhorter, in 1883, moved to Salem, Va., where for thirteen years he practiced his profession. Later he returned to the old homestead at Bachelor's Retreat, S. C., and remained there with his aged mother until her death. Finally he came back to Virginia to spend his last years, taking up his residence this time at Hampden-Sidney, Va., where his son, Dr. Ashton McWhorter, was a member of the faculty of Hampden-Sidney College.

In March, 1915, he had a stroke of paralysis and another in August, 1916. These were the precursors of the end, which came a year later, October 6, 1917. The last two years of his life were marked by much suffering, which he bore with great courage.

From the beginning of his married life he erected the family altar in his home and morning and evening for nearly fifty years he led his family regularly to the throne of heavenly grace.

Dr. McWhorter was a gentleman of the old school, a type rapidly passing away. His courtesy was innate and spontaneous. His piety was of the unobtrusive kind, showing itself in deeds rather than in words.

He lived beyond man's three score years and ten and now, after "life's fitful fever," he is at rest.

MRS. MARGARET JONES.

Resolutions of the Woman's Auxiliary of Concord church, Brunswick, County, Va., in loving memory of Mrs. Margaret Jones.

Whereas, it has pleased God in His wise providence to call home his aged servant, the senior member of Concord church and the president of the Woman's Auxiliary, we desire to place on record:

I. The high esteem in which she was held and the deep gratitude we feel to God for sparing her useful life so long to her church, to her family and to the whole community. Truly she was "as a mother in Israel."

II. We would commend her Christian character and work to others for their emulation, her witnessing for Christ, her faithfulness to every duty, her devotion to all public and private means of grace, "To fear and keep His commandments" being the keynote of her life.

III. That a copy of these resolutions be placed upon the records of the Auxiliary, sent to the family and be sent

What Bible verse does this picture illustrate?

HERE is one of the 30 pictures in the Third Bible Picture Study, which is now being conducted by Christian Herald.

All the 30 pictures are clear and plain. Could you select, from a special list of 2,000 Bible verses, one that this picture illustrates? If so, you can compete well in the great $5,000.00 National Bible Picture Study, for all that participants do is to look at the 30 pictures, open the Reference Book of 2,000 Bible verses, read the verses over, choose those that seem to fit best what the pictures show, and write the chosen verses down in the Answer Book. Then the Answer Book is sent in to us, and those who have selected the best verses for the pictures will be paid the 1,001 Prizes, aggregating $5,000.00 in Cash!

The men whose pictures are shown above, winners in our Second Bible Picture Study, are just folks, same as you are. They won by using their common sense in choosing the best fitting verses. You can win a prize in our present Picture Study if you make a successful use of your own common sense.

What Bible verse fits best—that is the question you ask yourself, and in considering each verse and each picture you learn much about the Bible that previously you had not unearthed; you gain in Bible understanding and in spiritual insight. The Picture Study is great entertainment, but it is at the same time solid, lasting Bible study. You cannot go wrong in entering for if you do not win a cash prize you will surely have the prize of greater knowledge of God's Word.

Directly below we show a picture of the Reference Book of 2,000 Bible verses, called International Bible Readings, and of the Answer Book. Each book is really 7x10 inches in size—they make participation in the Picture Study simple and enjoyable!
